TOPIC: Building Trust and Rapport We discussed how teacher can build greater rapport with various students once their unique personalities are taken into account and more understood. So, for example, a student who really likes chatting and being heard, taking the time every so often to give this student some time to be heard will then also be seen in improvement in the classroom. The stronger the rapport, the stronger everything else will become. Overall, teacher appreciated this lens and will seek to utilize it with several students that he feels can benefit specifically.
